FEBRUARY IS HEART MONTH!

BY: DASH HOLLAND, RD

This is American Heart Month! Take this time to better know your blood pressure and begin new strategies to keep it under control. High blood pressure is the leading cause of heart disease and stroke. It is often undetected with no symptoms, so the best way to keep it under control is to check regularly. Nutrition is an important part of controlling blood pressure, here are a few tips!

DIETARY APPROACHES TO STOP HYPERTENSION

- Focus on Low Sodium Foods
 - Avoid processed meats high in sodium such as canned meats, soups and vegetables –Look for “Low Sodium” varieties instead.
 - Limit cheese to 1 oz. per day or try swiss cheese which is naturally low in sodium.
 - Avoid frozen packaged foods unless they are less than 400mg/ serving.
 - Avoid salty snacks (ex. nuts, chips, pretzels) and look for lower sodium alternatives such as lightly salted or baked
- Increase Whole Grains
 - Switch to brown rice, wheat bread, whole wheat pasta, quinoa, barley
 - Include oatmeal or whole grain cereals for breakfast
- Eat and Drink 2-3 servings Low Fat Dairy every day
 - Drink 1 cup non-fat or low fat milk
 - Eat low fat yogurt
 - Can substitute Soy Milk or other milk alternative fortified with calcium
- Eat Fruits & Vegetables
 - Eat as many different fruits and vegetables throughout the day
 - Goal: 4-5 servings each (ex. small apple or handful steamed vegetables = 1 serving)
- Lean Meats
 - Avoid high fat meats such as bacon, hot dogs, marbled steak and regular ground beef.
 - Eat chicken, fish, lean red meat
- Eat “Healthier” Fats:
 - Olive Oil, Coconut Oil, Avocado, Nuts & Seeds
- Sweets
 - Limit to 5 small servings per week

In addition to promoting healthy blood pressure and cholesterol, the DASH diet supports healthy weight loss, and long-term adherence is associated with lower risk of stroke, heart failure, and osteoporosis, several types of cancer, and lower risk of kidney stones. New research shows reduced risk of developing type 2 diabetes and some types of breast cancers. dashdiet.org
